The Chanticleer

105 Years of Chronicling Life at Duke University

2016

2017

Editor-in-Chief

Introduction

Each year, the staff of The Chanticleer selects a theme for the yearbook which they feel represents the community, the campus, the students, and the book for that academic year. For 2016-17, we chose to view the year through the lens of Old Meets New.

While it's true that the West Union renovation certainly brought this to the forefront of our minds, we began to see it pop up in a myriad of ways throughout the year. Whether it was seasoned seniors leading top freshman recruits to athletic victories or the juxtaposition of Duke stone with glass boxes, old and new mixed in very distinct ways this year. Duke's rich history, steeped in tradition and looming architecture, is blended with modern innovations and fresh ideas every day by students, staff, and members of the community.

We've highlighted a few pages in this edition of The Chanticleer where we found there to be particularly notable combinations of old and new, but this theme isn't limited to those pages with black backgrounds and contrasting white text. As you read through this yearbook, months or years after the Class of 2017 has left campus, we encourage you to reflect on this year and consider other ways that this theme permeates both this book and your Duke experience.

Dancing Devils

At home football games in the fall, the team dances on the sidelines and performs alongside the band for both pre-game and halftime shows. They also perform halftime routines and cheer alongside the band at all men's and women's home basketball games. In addition to their commitments to these athletic events, they are routinely invited to dance as guest performers at campus-wide cultural events as well as student organizations' programs.

Defining Movement

Founded on the pillars of service and multiculturalism, Defining Movement was created out of a need seen on Duke's campus for a diverse organization that transcends the lines of race, gender, background, beliefs, and more. DefMo uniquely promotes acceptance, unity and diversity through art. With a common passion for dance, students from completely different backgrounds come together to try new dance styles, explore other cultures, and learn more about one another, all while bringing their own experiences to the group.

Unlike other cultural groups on campus, rather than taking a political approach, their founders endeavored to form a group that would manifest these ideals by its very existence. By incorporating a wide variety of dance styles and cultural roots, DefMo aims to challenge the preconceived notions attached to specific types of dance and to encourage dialogue about stereotypes in today's society.

Dhamaka

Founded in 2003, Duke Dhamaka is Duke University's premier competitive bhangra team. Dhamaka is a co-ed team open to all Duke students (undergrad/graduate students, medical school students, etc.). Dhamaka presents a high energy, traditional bhangra routine with its own modern flair. The team performs at various on-campus events and in the surrounding area with the purpose of increasing interest in and raising awareness for Punjabi culture. Dhamaka also competes nationwide and is a perennial favorite at on-campus performances like Awaaz and the Lunar New Year Festival.

Dhoom

Duke Dhoom is a Bollywood fusion team bridging the gap between East and West. Dhoom combines Indian dances (Bollywood, Bhangra, raas, classical) with styles from around the world (hip hop, Latin, modern) to create dynamic dances to powerful fusion beats. Duke Dhoom is open to any undergraduate or graduate student from any cultural background.

Duke Chinese Dance

DCD is an organization of students with a passion for dance and dedication towards the presentation of Chinese culture to the Duke, Durham, and surrounding North Carolinian communities. Their diverse repertoire includes minority dance styles, traditional Han styles, as well as modern fusion pieces to showcase the incredible complexity, grace, and creativity of Chinese dance and therefore, the diversity of Chinese culture.

Momentum Dance Company

Momentum Dance Company is an all-female, multi-style dance group at Duke University. The company is fully student run and choreographed, and our dancers come from diverse dance backgrounds, including ballet conservatories, competition dance troupes, hip hop teams and more. Momentum's annual Spring Showcase features 8-10 original pieces, as well as collaborations with other dance, a cappella and performing arts groups. Their members have frequent performance opportunities at campus wide events, philanthropies and celebrations.

On Tap

On Tap, Duke's only tap dance ensemble, was founded by Duke students in 1999 and is a group that brings together those who love tap and love to perform.

Raas

Dal Bhat Shaak (DBS) Raas is one of Duke's competitive dance teams. They are a group of friends that came together in the hopes of sharing and expressing their heritage to their friends, family and community through raas-garba. Raas-Garba is a folk dance from Gujarat, India which focuses on energy, expression, formations and religious themes.

Rhydhun

They are Duke's new competitive Hindi-film dance team: Duke Rhydhun! Hindi-film dance is purely India in style—inherently merging a variety of cultural dance elements such as classical, bhangra, raas/garba, and modern Bollywood. As a group they hope to preserve the beauty of each individual dance form, while simultaneously creating a fusion of the modern and traditional in a single dynamic performance.

Rhydhun's goal is to push the boundaries of traditional dance in all aspects—music, choreography, and theme. Their team plans to use their dances as a medium for social change—they hope to address important socio-cultural messages within the narratives of their performances.

Jabulani

Jabulani returned to Page Auditorium, this year hosted by DukeAfrica. With a lineup stacked with exciting acts like a runway show, spoken word dramas and dynamic dance performances, this event continued to be a campus favorite. This year, comedian AphricanApe joined the show as a host, and the drama was set in the Big Brother house, where housemates representing different African countries explored identities, stereotypes, and other issues.

The Too Monologues

The Too Monologues is an annual student-run theatrical production about identity. Pieces are anonymously submitted, and the actors in the show did not write the monologues they are performing. Because of their anonymous nature, the show's monologues are able to touch on intimate, personal experiences and explore narratives that would otherwise be silenced on campus.

Street Medicine

Duke's premier co-ed urban dance crew was founded in 2014 to bring hip-hop dance culture and urban dance choreography to the Duke scene.

Duke Swing

Duke Swing is a group of students of all experience levels who are passionate and excited about swing dancing. They offer free swing lessons throughout the year in addition to their performances!

Duke University Improv

Duke University Improv (DUI) is Duke's only improv comedy troupe. They perform across campus throughout the year leading up to their final comedy showcase, The Big Show. From the money that it raises through performances, DUI donates $10,000 per year to the Scott Carter Foundation. DUI was founded by a handful of freshmen in the basement of Gilbert-Addoms dormitory in the fall of 1996. The group rapidly grew in popularity and by the spring of 1998, The Big Show, DUI's end-of-the-year comedy extravaganza, was born. Today, DUI regularly performs for capacity crowds throughout the year in venues ranging from Page Auditorium to Pegram dormitory to campuses across the country.

In their words:

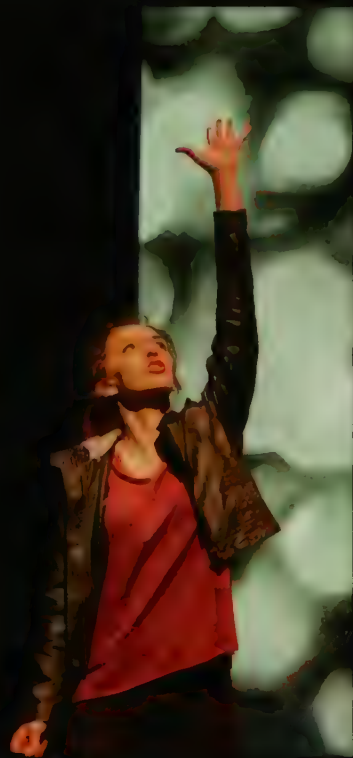

Ladies and Gentlemen,

Have you ever been in a room, faced with a combination of powerful melodies, smooth harmonies, and rugged handsomeness? If so, then you probably already know about Speak of the Devil, Duke's premier all-male a cappella group. If not, then sit back and prepare to witness the most electrifying men in musical entertainment.

More than 20 years ago, founders Preston Kim and Walter Moore paved the way for what would soon become the most sought after musical group to never appear on The Sing Off. While most groups sweat under the bright lights of the stage, Speak's muscles instead just glisten in the light. From hip hop to country, R&B and your favorite club jams, Speak does it all. We sing on stage; we sing on the quad; we even sing in the shower... wherever we end up in.

The gentlemen of Speak of the Devil feed off of their willingness to try new things and stay on the cutting edge of a cappella innovation, as well as their destructive determination to entertain above all else. They have proven that they are here to stay, and have become the most exciting and entertaining group on campus.

So enjoy the music, enjoy the dancing, and enjoy the collared button downs. The men of Speak guarantee to leave you musically, emotionally, and physically satisfied.

Hoof 'n Horn presents: The Aeneid

Hoof 'n Horn, the South's oldest student-run musical theater group, puts on three productions each year. For The Aeneid, the group voted to break from tradition for the opportunity to work with a professional creative team in a workshop production.

"A hyper contemporary take on an ancient tale! Hoof 'n' Horn, in collaboration with Duke Theater Studies and a professional creative team, will be performing the very first full production of The Aeneid, directed by Kay Matschullat with music by Duncan Sheik. A progressive retelling of the epic with rebellious, rock sensibilities this piece transports Virgil's gripping original to a contemporary context. Aeneas' challenges echo the yearning and trauma across the globe today, embodying the tragedy and the hope of our moment."

Hoof 'n' Horn presents: Violet

As noted in The Chronicle's review of the production, "Hoof 'n' Horn's production of "Violet," a musical set in the Civil Rights-era South that takes on themes of race, gender and politics, opened...the night before an inauguration ceremony that capped off an election season marked by racism and sexism."

In a year with such a tumultuous and polarized political atmosphere, a musical portraying the United States in the 1960s may have been the most appropriate production possible.

Out of the Blue

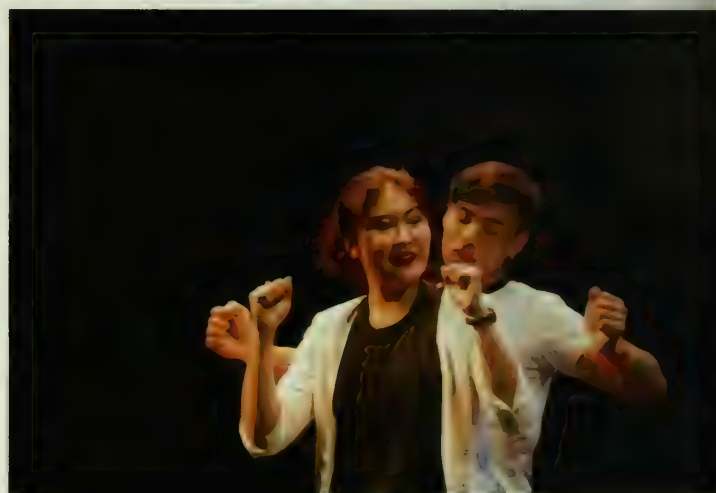

Founded in 1980, Out of the Blue is Duke's most award-winning and best all-female a cappella group. From Cameron Indoor Stadium and the ICCAs to Carnegie Hall and live on Turkish television, they have performed for countless audiences at local, out-of-state, and overseas venues. Out of the Blue has also consistently been recognized as one of the best collegiate a cappella groups in the country.

Duke Chinese Theater presents: Bus Stop

Duke Chinese Theater aims to unite those who are passionate about Chinese theater to regularly present Chinese theater pieces for the Duke community. Their first production, Bus Stop, was a loose adaptation of an existentialist play written by Xingjian Gao, the laureate of the 2000 Nobel Prize in Literature, and featured improvised performances by eight Chinese students.

Something Borrowed Something Blue

Something Borrowed, Something Blue was originally a Christian folk band started in 1969. In 1993, they became Duke's sixth a cappella group and are now in their 25th year! They adopted the wedding-themed name "Something Borrowed Something Blue" in 1998 to reflect the church's role as the beloved bride of Christ (Revelation 21)

Duke Symphony Orchestra

The Duke Symphony Orchestra (DSO) has consistently recruited 80-100 members each year, composed of musicians from the Duke student body (primarily undergraduates) and the surrounding university community. Under the direction of conductor Harry Davidson, DSO seeks to create a dynamic and enlivening environment for concert-goers and performers alike. The orchestra's repertoire ranges from the seventeenth to the twentieth century and includes both well-known masterpieces and lesser-known works.

Small Town Records

Small Town Records is Duke University's student-run record label and recording studio. They offer free recording time to any Duke-affiliated student, and also sign artists with outstanding music potential and drive.

Men's Swimming & Diving

After earning All-ACC honors in the 100-yard breaststroke, senior Peter Kropp went on to capture first team All-America accolades in the same event at the 2017 NCAA Championships. Fellow senior Dylan Payne, sophomore Evan Moretti, and freshman Nathaniel Hernandez also represented the Blue Devils at the national meet. The men's team was eighth in the ACC Championships behind Kropp's podium finish and the efforts of Hernandez, who reached event finals in one-meter and three-meter springboard diving. In regular season action, the Duke men topped North Carolina for the first time since 1939.

Women's Cross Country

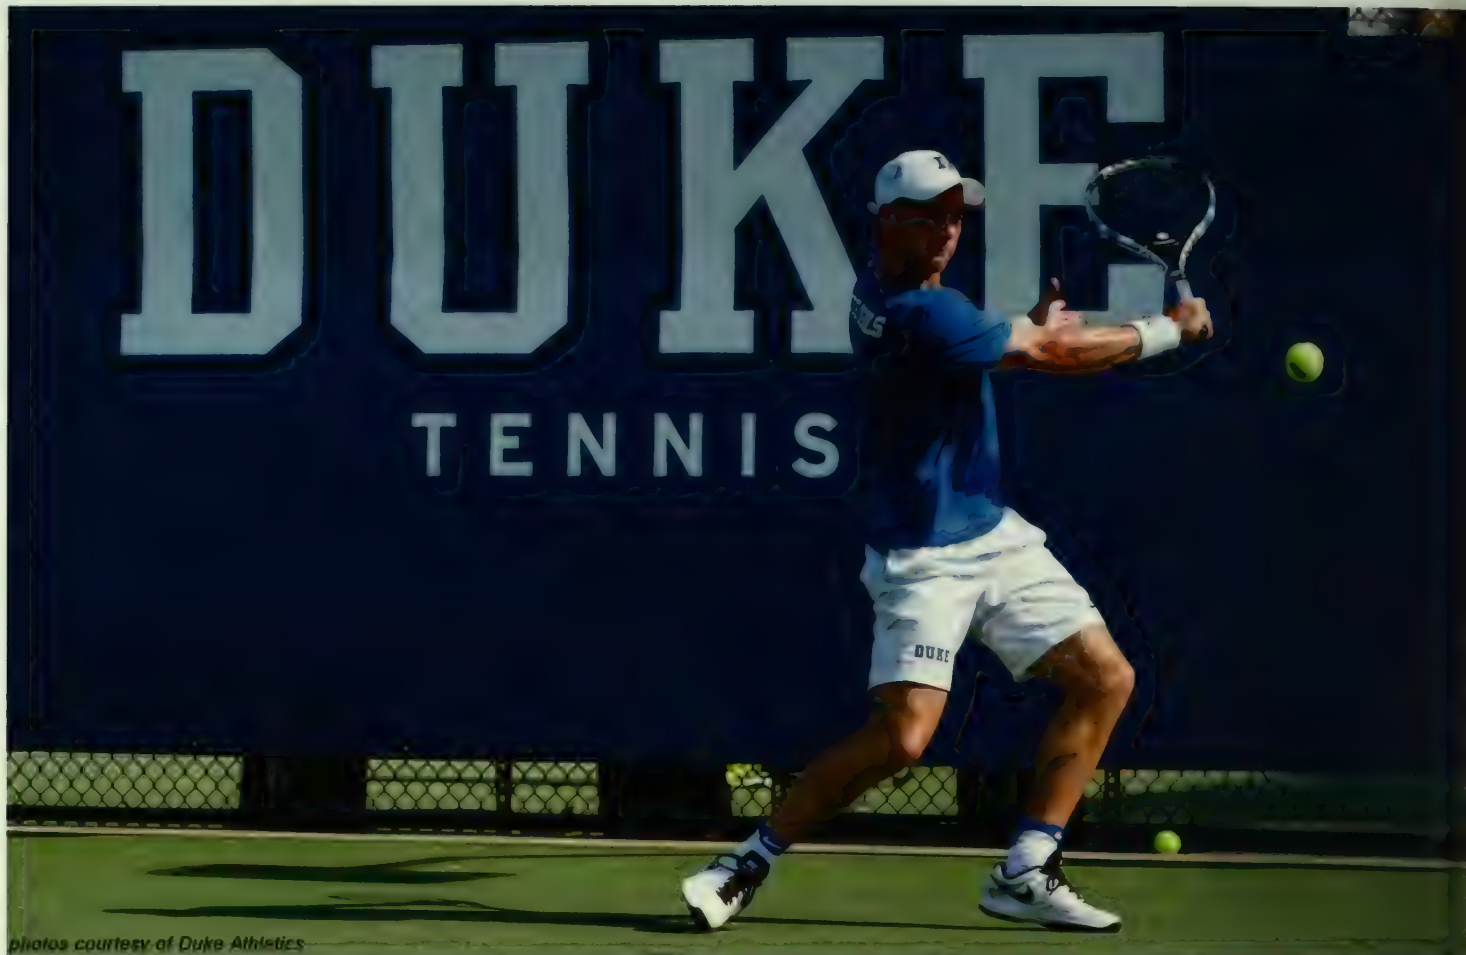

The 2016 season served as head coach Rhonda Riley's Blue Devils debut. Riley helped guide a young Duke squad that included six freshmen, five sophomores and one graduate student. Rookie Sophie Parvizi-Wayne garnered all-conference honors in her first year as a Blue Devil after placing 15th overall in a personal-best 6K time of 20:28.2 at the conference championships. Earlier in the season, Parvizi-Wayne clocked a 6K time of 22:16.8 at the Roanoke Griak Invitational, to place 18th overall. The Blue Devils earned three top-five finishes throughout the season, including first-place showings at the VertCros Invitational and the Duke Alumni Meet, and a second-place effort at the Sycamore Invitational.

Men's Cross Country

The Duke men's cross country team concluded the season with four top-five finishes throughout the 2016 campaign, including first-place showings at the Duke Alumni Meet and the Three Stripe Invitational, a second-place finish at the VertCross Invitational and the Three Stripe Invitational and a third-place showing at the Sycamore Invitational. Sophomore Stephen Garrett served as Duke's top finisher at both the ACC Championships and the Southeast Regional Championships. Garrett crossed the finish in 35th with a personal-best eight-kilometer time of 24:15.3 at the conference championships, and followed the performance with a 40th-place showing at the regional championships, crossing the finish in a personal-best 10K time of 30:25.4.

Men's Tennis

Duke returned to the NCAA Team Championship after missing the event in 2016, and finished 2017 with a 16-1 record. The Blue Devils reversed their ACC record from the year before, going 8-4 after posting a 4-8 ledger in 2016. Duke had one representative in the NCAA Doubles Tournament, with freshmen Nick Stachowiak and Spencer Furman earning one of 20 at-large bids. Furman (77), sophomore Catalin Mateas (106) and junior Nicolas Alvarez (58) finished as the squad's ranked players in the Oracle/Intercollegiate Tennis Association slams, while Furman and Stachowiak stood 23rd in the doubles ledger. Furman (second team), Mateas (third team) and senior TJ Pura (third team) were named to the All-ACC Teams for the first time in their careers. Pura, who was also the ITA Carolina Regional Most Improved Player, finished the ACC season with an 11-0 record, setting the program mark for consecutive ACC wins in a year and tying the record for most ACC victories in a single season. Stachowiak was tabbed the team's Charles Hamilton Hargrave Most Valuable Player after leading the Blue Devils in singles (32) and doubles (27) victories. Head coach Ramsey Smith became the third Duke coach to reach 175 career victories.

Duke's Tennis

The Blue Devils advanced to the NCAA Team Championship Round of 16 for the sixth time in the past eight seasons. Duke compiled a 22-6 ledger and went 13-1 in ACC matches to claim a share of the regular season title. The squad went 14-0 at home, tying the 2012 squad for the most home victories in a season. Individually, sophomore Kaitlyn McCarthy rounded out the year with a 21-match win streak in singles, making her the first Blue Devil with at least 21 straight dual match victories since Rachel Kahan had 30 straight in 2010-11. Junior Samantha Harris played every dual match on court one for Duke. Freshman Meible Chi was the team's highest-ranked player all season and posted a 32-15 singles ledger, with the 32 victories tied for the fourth-most by a Duke freshman. Chi and senior Chalena Scholl represented the Blue Devils in the NCAA Singles Championship.

Women's Soccer

The women's soccer team collected a 15-5-3 overall record and advanced to the NCAA quarterfinals, before falling to topseeded West Virginia, 1-0, under the direction of head coach Robbie Church. The Blue Devils totaled a 7-2-1 record in the very challenging ACC. Duke was led in scoring by freshman Ella Stevens, who notched a team-high 10 goals, six assists and a team-high 26 points. The Duke defense, anchored by goalkeeper EJ Proctor, was once again outstanding in notching 11 shutouts. Senior Christina Gibbons closed out her outstanding career by becoming just the third Blue Devil to earn NSCAA First Team All-America. Gibbons went on to be selected No. 5 overall in the College NWSL Draft, while Toni Payne was taken with the No. 13 pick, both by FC Kansas City.

Men's Soccer

Men's soccer had a roller coaster season, finishing the year with an 8-2 overall record. The Blue Devils started strong, going 2-0-1 in the first three games, including a thrilling 1-0 victory over then-No. 9 UCLA. Evan White led all scorers on the season with 14 points from five goals and four assists to earn All-ACC second team honors. Rookie Max Moser, with a team-best seven assists, earned ACC All-Freshman team accolades. In the 2017 Major League Soccer SuperDraft, Robert Moewes was taken in the third round by Toronto FC.

Wrestling

There were a host of memorable performances for the Duke wrestling team throughout the 2016-17 season with Jack Kasper's run to All-America honors serving as the highlight. The Blue Devils finished the year with a 4-9 record, which included a trio of narrow setbacks. Seniors Jake Faust and Connor Bass went out in style as they qualified for the NCAA Championships. Faust battled through tough injuries during the year and gritted his way to one of the four bids at 157 pounds, while Bass landed on the podium at the ACC Championships with a third-place showing at 174 pounds. Kasper, the ACC runner-up in heavyweight, had a memorable year in going from unranked to becoming Duke's third wrestling All American in program history with a sixth-place finish at the NCAA Championships.

Field Hockey

The Blue Devils rounded out the 2016 campaign at No. 1 in the final Penn Monto/NFHA Division I Coaches Poll by compiling a 16-4 ledger against the nation's toughest schedule. Duke earned the No. 1 seed in the NCAA tournament for the first time and made the program's fifth consecutive appearance in the quarterfinal round. In another historic first for the program, the Blue Devils captured the ACC regular season title after compiling a perfect ledger against conference opponents. Head coach Pam Bustin was named the NFHCA South Region Coach of the Year and ACC Coach of the Year. Junior back Alyssa Chillano (first team) and senior forward Heather Harris (third team) were both selected for All-America honors.

W Lacrosse

Duke was ranked among the country's top 20 squads throughout the season and concluded the year at 8-9 overall. The Blue Devils posted three wins over ranked opponents, including a 12-8 victory over No. 12 Stanford in February's Patriot Cup, held at the Dallas Cowboys' practice facility in Frisco, Texas. Midfielder Maddie Crutchfield, defender Maura Schwitter and goalkeeper Gabbe Cadoux each collected ACC Player of the Week honors over the course of the season, with Schwitter and Crutchfield representing the program on the 2017 All-ACC and All-South Region teams.

Lacrosse

maturing a young and experienced squad, Duke got off to a 2-2 start in 2017 before finishing the year 13-5 and advancing to the NCAA quarterfinals. Head coach John Danowski made history in 2017, becoming the Division I men's lacrosse wins leader. The three-time NCAA Champion coach picked up his 375th win with a 15-7 victory over No. 1 Loyola to tie the record and scored his 5th victory two days later against Jacksonville. He is on pace to become the first Division I head coach to 400 wins. Justin Sterding spearheaded the offense with 97 goals. He became the first different player in ACC history to lead the conference in goals (51), assists (46) and points (97). His 97 points are tied for second at Duke with Matt Danowski, while 51 goals and 46 assists also rank in the top 10 in Duke single season history. Sterding garnered All-America second team honors, while Brad Smith and Cade Van Raaphorst picked up third team accolades. Jack Pickner, Danny Fowler, Mike Rowe and Tommy Linker were honorable mention.

Rowing

The Duke rowing team turned in another strong season, capped by a fourth place finish at the ACC Championships. The Blue Devils finished the year ranked 20th in the CRCA poll and were ranked for the entire regular season topping out at No. 14 in late March. The Blue Devils started the year in strong fashion, capturing the Carol Cup and winning every race. Duke followed with its 2V4 winning the Longhorn Invite and being tabbed All-Crew of the Week. At the ACC Championship, the Blue Devils advanced four boats to the Grand Finals with V8, 2V8, V4 and 2V4. Junior Katherine Maitland was an AllACC First Team selection while sophomore Shantia Tierney was placed on the all-league second team.

Baseball

Duke finished the season with a 30-28 (12-18 ACC) overall record, marking the program's fourth straight win campaign. With wins over No. 14 Clemson and No. 10 Virginia, the Blue Devils earned a spot in the ACC Championship semifinals. Sophomore outfielder Jiffin Conine earned second team AllACC honors after leading the Blue Devils in slugging percentage, on base percentage, RBI, home runs, total bases and walks. He was the first Blue Devil with 50-plus RBI in a season since 2009 and the first Blue Devil with double digit homers in a season since 2010. Conine was selected to the 2017 College Home Run Derby in Omaha, Neb. July 1. Duke had three players selected in the 2017 Major League Baseball Draft in junior first baseman Justin Hollinger (Cincinnati Reds), redshirt junior pitcher James Ziemba (Los Angeles Angels) and sophomore outfielder Jimmy Herron (New York Yankees).

M Fencing

The Duke fencing team placed ninth at the 2017 NCAA Championships, marking the seventh time in the past eight seasons that the Blue Devils have placed in the top 10. Duke sent a program-best eight athletes to the NCAA Championships. Bryn Hammarberg, Duncan De Caire, Eoin Gronningsater, Jonathan Schwartzman and Pascual Di Tella represented the Blue Devil men at NAAs, where Bryn Hammarberg collected All-America honors with a 10th-place performance. At the ACC Championships, the Duke men finished second in the team standings. During individual competition, Pascual Di Tella collected gold in men's saber, marking the first time a Blue Devil male has won an individual ACC title since fencing returned as a league sponsored sport. Bryn Hammarberg, Eoin Gronningsater and Agoston Walter also collected All-ACC recognition with bronze medals in their respective events. The Duke men finished the year with a 19-5 ledger. Pascual Di Tella was named both ACC Fencer of the Year (saber) and ACC Scholar-Athlete of the Year, while Alex Beguinet was honored as the ACC Men's Coach of the Year.

Fencing

The Duke women's fencing team placed 12th at the 2017 NCAA Championships, marking the seventh time in the past eight seasons that the Blue Devils have placed in the top 10. Duke sent a program-best eight fencers to the NCAA Championship. Camille Esnault, Julia Lee and Lindsay Sapienza were the three women that represented Duke at the 2017 NCAA Championship, and Camille Esnault (epee) led the Blue Devils with a 12th-place finish to garner All-America honors. At the ACC Championships, the Duke women finished second in the team standings, highlighted by Rita Somogyi (epee) and Lindsay Sapienza (saber) collected All-ACC recognition with their second-place showings. The Duke women capped up the 2017 campaign with an 17-8 overall record. Rita Somogyi (women's epee) was named ACC Scholar-Athlete of the Year as a senior.

Volleyball

The Duke volleyball team (21-9, 15-5) surpassed 20 wins for the 27th time in the program's 46-year history and finished tied for third in the league standings. One of the nation's top defensive teams, the Blue Devils ranked fourth among NCAA DI programs in digs per set (18.31) while ranking among the league leaders in opponent hitting percentage and blocks per set. Duke also led the ACC in both kills per set (14.29) and assists per frame (13.38). Senior libero Sasha Karelov was named ACC Defensive Player of the Year and joined middle blockers Jordan Tucker and Leah Meyer in All-ACC First Team and AVCA All-East Coast Region honors. In addition, Karelov and Tucker both netted AVCA Honorable Mention All-America distinction while setter Cindy Marina and rightside hitter Samantha Amos were both selected to the ACC All-Freshman Team.

Golf

The women's golf team turned in yet another outstanding season in 2016-17 winning three tournaments. Duke claimed its 20th overall ACC championship, including their 19th title under the direction of head coach Dan Brooks. Junior Leona Maguire turned in a six-under-par, 210, to win her second ACC Individual title in three years with the Blue Devils. She also collected her third victory this season and seventh of her career, which ranked tied third all-time at Duke. Maguire, the No. 1 ranked amateur golfer in the world, turned in a Duke/ ACC record 70.29 stroke average on her way to earning the WGCA & Annika National Player of the Year. The Blue Devils went on to finish second at the NCAA Regional and fourth at NCAA Championship, while Maguire was tied for runner up at the NCAA Championship, individually.

M Track & Field

At the ACC Indoor Championships, the Blue Devils finished 13th as a team, highlighted by Daniel Golubovic and Chaz Hawkins receiving second team All-ACC accolades in the heptathlon, with fourth and fifth-place showings respectively. Matt Wisner set a school record in the 800m in a time of 1:50.10. The Duke men's track and field team qualified two student-athletes for the NCAA Outdoor Championships as Daniel Golubovic collected second team All-America honors in the decathlon and Connor Hall garnered All-America honorable mention in pole vault. The ACC Championships were highlighted by six Blue Devils receiving All-ACC accolades as Golubovic, Hall, and Nicholas Solfanelli brought gold back to Durham. The men concluded the conference championships in eighth place.

Track & Field

Duke sent eight Blue Devil women to the NCAA Outdoor Championships. Katelyn Gochenour collected first team All-America honors and ACC Women's Freshman of the Year following her performance. Madison Heath, MacKenzie Kerr, Madeline Kopp, India Lowe and Maddy Price earned second team All-America recognition and Laura Marty and Kristine Streisel added All-America honorable mention. The ACC Championships were highlighted by Gochenour, Heath, Kopp, Jaida Simmons, Marty, Sydnei Murphy and Nati Sheppard collecting first team All-ACC recognition. The women concluded the conference championships in fifth. The Duke women's track and field team qualified 10 student-athletes for the NCAA Indoor Championships as Madeline Kopp and Madison Heath brought All-America accolades to Durham. The ACC Championships were highlighted by Madeline Kopp, Madison Heath, Sydnei Murphy, MacKenzie Kerr and Maddy Price collecting first team All-ACC recognition, marking the third consecutive year Duke has kept the women's pole vault ACC title. The women concluded the conference championships in fifth place.

M Golf

The 2016-17 season featured a return trip to the NCAA Championship and another ACC Championship to trophy case as the Blue Devils collected four team titles and four individual crowns. Duke finished second at the NCAA Baton Rouge Regional to earn a return trip to the NCAA Championships, in Sugar Grove, Ill. Duke claimed 22nd overall at the main end-of-season event. PING All-East Region selections Alex Smalley (71.54) and Chandler Eaton (71.74) led seven Duke players with sub- 73.00 scoring averages for the campaign. Alexander Mattila, another PING All-East Region selection, picked up a squadhigh two tournament titles, winning the Queen Invitational (B) and Myrtle Beach Intercollegiate (B).

Duke Cheerleading

Duke Cheerleading is an extremely visible and dedicated group that makes important contributions to Duke's athletic programs, campus culture, and surrounding community. Along with their primary role of cheering and performing at Duke's athletic events, the Duke Cheerleaders also appear at university and community functions, assist with philanthropic events, and instruct cheerleading clinics throughout the year.

Duke University Marching Band

The Duke University Marching Band is proud to represent the university both on campus and around the country as a spirited supporter of Duke Athletics. Comprised almost entirely of non-music majors, their members have a great time putting on shows and getting the crowd going by playing University favorites, even in the midst of a hurricane.

Football

The Duke football team turned in a 4-8 record 1-7 ACC mark while playing its best football in second half of the season and capturing two of most exciting wins in program history. Despite trailing 14-0 in the first quarter, the Blue Devils registered a 38-35 victory at Notre Dame as freshman AJ R... kicked a game-winning 19-yard field goal with 1 left in the game. Two months later, Duke held off 15 North Carolina 28-27 to return the Victory Bell to Durham after it spent two long years down the road. The team painted the wrong shade of blue. With the win against the 15th-ranked Tar Heels, Duke has recorded at least one victory against a ranked opponent for 11 consecutive years, a first for the program since 1955-60. Redshirt freshman Daniel Jones established 12 Duke freshman single-season passing records while earning four ACC Freshman of the Week accolades. Redshirt senior defensive tackle A.J. Wolf repeated as a CoSIDA First Team Academic All-America selection, giving Duke a team representative for four straight years, longest streak in the country.

Women's Basketball

The women's basketball team moved back into the national spotlight in 2016-17 as the Blue Devils collected a 28-6 overall record and advanced to the NCAA Tournament second round. Duke totaled a 13-3 mark in the ACC, which tied for second. The Blue Devils were led by the dynamic duo of redshirt juniors Lexie Brown and Rebecca Greenwell, who ranked as one of the highest scoring duos in the nation combining for 34.7 points a contest. Both received ACC First Team accolades, while Brown was also selected to the Associated Press All-America third team. Brown, who became eligible with the Blue Devils after sitting out the previous year, earned CoSIDA Academic All-America, ACC Women's Basketball Scholar-Athlete of the Year and to the All-ACC Defensive Team among other honors. The eight-win turnaround from a year ago was the second-largest difference in school history.

Men's Basketball

Duke finished 28-9 in 2016-17, becoming one of three schools nationally to reach the 25-win mark in each of the last 10 seasons. The Blue Devils made history at the ACC Tournament in Brooklyn as the first team to win four games in as many days to capture the championship, defeating three consecutive ranked teams along the way. The automatic bid earned in Brooklyn was Duke's 22nd consecutive NCAA Tournament berth and its NCAA record 33rd under head coach Mike Krzyzewski. Luke Kennard earned consensus second-team All-American honors and was the only unanimous first-team All-ACC selection after leading the team with an average 19.1 points per game and shooting .438 from outside the arc. Kennard was also the MVP of the ACC Tournament during which he averaged 20.0 points per contest. Three Duke players – Grayson Allen, Amile Jefferson and Luke Kennard – all reached the 1,000-point milestone for their careers during the 2016-17 season, giving the Blue Devils three 1,000-point scorers on the same team for the first time since 2010.

Duke men's basketball matched a school record with four selections in the 2017 NBA Draft. Freshman Jays Tatum (3rd overall | Boston Celtics), sophomore Lu Kennard (12th overall | Detroit Pistons) and freshman Harry Giles (20th overall | Denver Nuggets) were each first-round picks, while freshman Frank Jackson (31st overall | New Orleans Hornets) was the first pick in the second round. Seniors Amile Jackson and Matt Jones signed free agent contracts with the Minnesota Timberwolves and the Houston Rockets, respectively.

THE HEYDAD

Coming Out Day

The Duke community celebrated Coming Out Day, which fosters support and awareness of coming out as lesbian, gay, bisexual, transgender or queer (LGBTQ). Organized by the Duke Center for Sexual and Gender Diversity, volunteers at the campus event gave out 1,500 "Love=Love" T-shirts and 600 Monuts donuts on the Bryan Center Plaza.

E-Oktoberfest

In case you couldn't join your friends abroad in Germany for the real deal, ESG had you covered with their annual E-Oktoberfest, featuring free food, beer, and fun times with your favorite engineers.

E-Picnic

The Engineering Student Government hosted their annual E-Picnic. With free food, free beer, and free t-shirts, the event remained popular across both the Pratt and larger Duke community.

Junot Díaz Reading

The Department of English proudly presented this year's Blackburn Visiting Fiction Writer: Junot Díaz. At a free event hosted in the Fuqua School of Business, he gave a reading and participated in a book signing.

*Junot Díaz was born in the Dominican Republic and raised in New Jersey. He is the author of the critically acclaimed Drown; The Brief Wondrous Life of Oscar Wao, which won the 2008 Pulitzer Prize and the National Book Critics Circle Award; and This Is How You Lose Her, a New York Times bestseller and National Book Award finalist.*

Food Fest

Hosted by the Duke International Association, Food Fest continues to be a campus favorite. This year, 15 student groups shared their (free!) food and culture with other students, and 15 talented performance groups put on quite a show on the BC plaza that sunny fall afternoon. Free food on campus is always sure to draw a crowd, and this event is known for the delicious offerings from groups like Challah for Hunger, Mi Gente, DukeAFRICA, and more!

Latkapolooza

Hosted by the Jewish Student Union, in conjunction with Duke Friends of Israel and AEPI, Latkapalooza was a fun Hannukah celebration in The Loop with free food (latkes and donuts!), a photobooth, and a fundraiser supporting Saving for Savannah.

The Dostoevsky Games

The Dostoevsky classes at both Duke and UNC spent the spring semester preparing for this Russian-literature-based competition by reading about the life of Fyodor Dostoevsky as well as some of his most famous works. They welcomed both spectators and celebrity judges to watch their friendly competition and performances in Perkins.

Shave for Schreiber, Buzz for Bobby

Pi Kappa Alpha hosted a shave-a-thon event on Clocktower Quad where 60+ brothers and members of the community shaved their heads in solidarity with cancer patients worldwide and specifically for Pi Kappa Alpha brothers Mark Schreiber ('18) and Bobby Meng ('19). They met and surpassed their fundraising goal of $20,000 through this and other related events.

Shave for Schreiber, Buzz for Bobby is an annual philanthropy event to raise money for adolescent and young adult (AYA) cancer. Last year, over $60,000 was raised for the Duke Children's Hospital Adolescent and Young Adult Oncology Program.

Smash Bash

Zeta Tau Alpha's annual fundraising event benefitting the charity Think Pink! was, as usual, a hit with members of the Duke community. Donations and ticket sales for participants to pick up a sledgehammer and let out a little midterm-season stress went to help provide support to breast cancer survivors and educate women about prevention and early detection.

Duke Lemur Center

The Duke Lemur Center, which celebrated its 50th anniversary this year, is the world's largest and most diverse collection of lemurs – Earth's most threatened group of mammals – outside of Madagascar. Its 85-acre grounds and the corresponding facility buildings are open for tours throughout the year for students as well as members of the public.

The Duke Lemur Center advances science, scholarship, and biological conservation through interdisciplinary research, community-based conservation, and public outreach. By engaging scientists, students, and the public in new discoveries and global awareness, the Center promotes a deeper appreciation of biodiversity and an understanding of the power of scientific discovery.

West Union First Big Welcome

After almost four full years of construction, West Union finally reopened to much fanfare during The First Big Week. The official event, dubbed "First Big Welcome", showcased the entirety of the beautiful new building with everything from trivia to sushi demos to screenprinting to the widely popular stuff-a-pokemon and to the eternal student favorite: free tshirts. It even hosted its first pep rally for Duke football to kick off the season with performances by dance groups and the marching band!

Libraries

Between Perkins, Bostock, Lilly, and Rubenstein, there's space for anyone who needs or wants it in the library. Everyone loves to hate all-nighters in group study rooms or quietly (frantically) typing papers in the stacks. Whether you're a chatty first floor frequenter or a silent fourth floor dweller, chances are you've spent more time than you'd like working/studying/socializing in a Duke library.

Durham

East Campus

The 2016-17 academic year seems to be the final year of the freshman-only residences on East Campus. With dorm construction and renovations happening across campus, Duke is preparing for its first major housing change since East Campus became the first-year campus in 1995.

Class of 2020

Congratulations on completing your first year of college, Class of 2020! Even though there's still debate about whether to call you "first years" or "freshmen", it's hard to deny that you probably never meet and later get to know as many people as you did during O-week. West Union

West Union is the heart of the Campus Center and quickly reinstated itself in students' lives as a central place to eat, socialize and study. With 13 dining options, study spaces, performance areas and ample space to casually hang out with friends, there's no denying that West Union is back and here to stay.

The Chapel

The most identifiable and iconic building on campus, it's all but impossible to get to class without passing the Chapel, and the sight of its beautiful Duke stone façade reaching up into a North Carolina sunset has graced many an Instagram post and Snapchat story. Krzyzewskiville

Can you spell Krzyzewskiville? K-ville is a phenomenon that occurs every year in the leadup to the Duke vs UNC men's basketball game. Don't let the enthusiasm of the student fans fool you—it's highly regulated by Line Monitors, and, for some students, a place in the first tent (and therefore the front row center court) is more highly coveted than a 4.0 GPA. Since its inception in 1986, more than 1,000 students have pitched tents and braved the winter cold for weeks to secure a place in the student section for the big game. This year was particularly historic, as K-ville reached its maximum black tenting capacity in record time: in the first 12 hours of registration, over 100 groups of 12 signed up for only 70 tent spots. Groups had to complete and pass a written Duke basketball exam above a 77% cutoff in order to earn the right to tent.

Last Day of Classes

The LDOC (Last Day of Classes) Festival started in 1997 and quickly became one of the highlights of the school year and an integral part of Duke culture. While LDOC sponsors many daytime activities (silent disco, massages on the quad, and food trucks, to name a few) and student performances, the highlight of the day is the concert held in the evening featuring multiple popular artists. This year's headliner was rapper Tory La Torre, following performances by pop artist Daya, electronic dance music group Cheat Codes and synthpop band Panic! at the Disco.

Commencement

Commencement weekend, with its formal baccalaureate services and university-wide commencement ceremony, followed traditions as ancient and universal as those from the first medieval universities and as unique as Duke University itself. Duke celebrated commencement with a weekend full of events and ceremonies for the Class of 2017 and their friends and families. Remember in the words of speaker David Rubenstein, "Duke graduates are God's chosen people."

AMILE-ION
THANKS,
JEFFERSON

In Gratitude

Thank you to the following people and groups, without whom this yearbook would not have been possible: Kim Trezona, our Jostens representative, for her endless support and patience; Kyle Fox, our staff advisor, for his enthusiastic support of all of our ideas and requests; Duke Athletics, for providing passes and lending photos for this publication; Reagan Lunn, for his advice and sharing his photographic expertise; Duke Photography, for their advice and the use of the class photo each year; Lifetouch, for offering free senior portraits; The Chanticleer staff, for their hard work; and our friends and family, whose tolerance and patience and support cannot be understated.

Letter From The Editor

Yearbooks are an interesting relic of days past, and this edition of The Chanticleer is particularly special to me for several reasons. First, this is my last yearbook. I graduated in May 2017, and it marks the end of an era for me. Real life awaits, and it's incredibly bittersweet that it doesn't include the words "I can't, I have to do yearbook".

Second, this is my senior yearbook. I spent a phenomenal four years (though sometimes it felt longer) at Duke getting to know the school, the community and the Class of 2017, and this book is a window into my final year that I'll treasure. Fellow graduates, I hope you'll do the same!

Third, The Chanticleer has shaped my Duke experience unlike anything else. From basketball floor passes to front row cappella tickets to rooftop photo shoots, almost every experience I've had at Duke has been slanted in some way to the yearbook. Without this group, I would have missed so many of the corners of campus that eventually became some of my favorite things about Duke, and I am forever grateful for this opportunity.

Fourth, while it's always special to be part of a team, this year's group has been especially close to my heart. As the world changes around the tradition that is the yearbook, The Chanticleer staff has been impressively dedicated, and I so appreciate all the hard work that the group put into producing the book you now hold.

Finally, this book is special because it itself signals the end of an era. For over a century, the cost of The Chanticleer has been covered for all students by the student activity fee, tapering down until free yearbooks were only available to the graduating class. The 105th edition of the Chanticleer is the last edition to be made available at no cost to seniors. DSG has chosen to eliminate traditional yearbook funding from the annual budget for next year. While this is a loss for the group and for the Duke student body, I am confident that next year's team will continue producing high quality content, and The Chanticleer will continue, albeit with a slightly different perspective.

In the spirit of this yearbook and its "Old Meets New" theme, I encourage you to look back on fond memories, but also to consider the future as you make decisions. Weigh the things that are permanent and lasting versus those which are not, and act accordingly.

I am so proud of the 2016-17 yearbook. It has been my swan song, my passion project, my anchor, and sometimes my ball and chain for over a year, and I cannot express how thankful I am to have worked on it. I poured my life into creating this book for the Class of 2017 and the Duke community. It's only a snapshot, a window into the year, but I hope this book brings back memories of this year at Duke for decades to come, and I hope you have enjoyed it.

To the reader: Thank you for your time.

To Duke: Thank you for the last four years.

To the yearbook: Thanks for the memories.

Best,

Meghan Fox
